

FORMER BOWLING ALLEY WILL GO UP IN FLAMES DURING PRACTICE BURN

HEATHER ACHESON/POST-RECORD

A building that up until July 2007 housed Riverside Bowl, and in recent years has become a dilapidated eyesore, will be torched as part of a Camas Fire Department practice burn in the near future. According to Fire Marshal Randy Miller, no date for the practice burn of the building has been set as the owners of the property are in the process of coordinating the asbestos abatement project, which must be completed before a burn permit application can be approved by the Southwest Clean Air Agency and the CFD. According to Clark County records the property, which sits on the banks of the Washougal River at 3010 N.E. Third Ave., in Camas, is owned by Marwan and Jacqueline Bahu and Howard and Lorena Reser. They could not be reached for comment as of press deadlines.
